ABSTRACT

This bibliography was compiled in support of a study of correctional institutional libraries funded by the U.S. Office of Education, Bureau of Libraries and Learning Resources. Findings of the study appear in preceding volumes of this report: Volume I. Findings and Recommendations, Volume II. Access to Legal Reference Materials in Correctional Institutions, Volume III. Current Practices in Correctional Library Services: State Profiles.

The bibliography is designed to be a research aid for librarians, correctional administrators, attorneys, and students concerned with library and information problems in correctional institutions.

I. INTRODUCTION

This bibliography was compiled as part of a study of correctional library services by the Institute of Library Research of the University of California at Berkeley under a grant from the U.S. Office of Education, Bureau of Libraries and Learning Resources. A final report of the study, Findings and Recommendations, appears as Volume I. of this publication. Volume II discusses legal reference materials and Volume III provided brief state by state descriptions of current practice in the provision of library services to the inmates of adult and juvenile institutions under state administration.

Although the scope of the I.L.R. Study was limited to adult and juvenile correctional institutions under Federal and State administration, the bibliography encompasses library services in all correctional institutions, including those at county and municipal level. Fields of study covered in the bibliographic search included criminology, sociology, education, law, and librarianship. Sources were University of California holdings, Educational Resources Information Center (ERIC) Clearinghouse of Library and Information Sciences, National Council on Crime and Delinquency Information Center and documents accumulated by the Institute during the course of the study. Sustained literature support for the project was derived from ERIC publications. A current awareness search was provided through the Center for Information Services at the University of California at Los Angeles (CIS at UCLA). Several of the citations retrieved had not previously been seen and contributed greatly to the study. Documents available through ERIC are cited with ED numbers and may be ordered from ERIC Document Reproduction Service, LEASCO Information Products, Inc., P.O. Drawer O, Bethesda, Maryland. The assistance of the ERIC Clearinghouse on Library and Information Science, which provided bibliographic support in the form of copies of its input, is also gratefully acknowledged.

Because comprehensive bibliographies on correctional library services for publications prior to 1970 have already been compiled, the emphasis in this listing is upon documents published within the last five years. Prison Libraries: Bibliography by David M. Gillespie is available through ERIC and provides excellent coverage for pertinent documents published prior to 1970.

The readings were chosen with the intent of providing librarians with ideas and information for implementing library services in correctional facilities. Correctional administrators and educators will also find much in the way of worthwhile examples of library service to jails and prisons and information on the development of such service in the United States during the past decade.

The bibliography was compiled in support of recommendations and points of view expressed in the study report; therefore, documents have been included which do not touch directly upon library services, but discuss such related issues as the use of ex-felons as a manpower source for correctional institutions, the use of community-based services, and the expanding rights of confined persons.

An earlier product of the bibliographic search done in this study was the publication, A Summary of Court Decisions Relating to the Provision of Library Services in a Correctional Institution., by Marjorie LeDonne; this is now available through the Association of Hospital and Institution Libraries, 50 Huron Street, Chicago, Illinois.
